Long-time West Sac city manager to step down soon

Art Schroeder of the West Sacramento City Manager's Office provided most of the information in this report.

JOE GOEDEN
Top city staffer for West Sacramento since 1989

Joseph Goeden, city manager of West Sacramento for over 12 years, has announced his retirement this year following the city council's selection of a replacement. He tentatively expects to depart in late spring.

"After 30 years of public service, I think it's time to explore other challenges," said Goeden. "For one thing, I've got a big red barn in McCloud (northern California) that I'd like to turn into a mountain inn."

Goeden has been the top administrator for the city for most of its history, after being chosen for the post by the 1989 West Sacramento City Council. Previously, he had been serving as city administrator for the city of Montebello in the Los Angeles area. West Sacramento was in its third year as a city when Goeden came north.

"There was a lot of work in front of us – but that's why the public voted to incorporate – to receive quality service," recalled Goeden. "It's been a privilege to see West Sacramento develop as a place where people live, work and play."

During his tenure – a bit on the "lengthy" side for a city manager – Goeden successfully negotiated the politics of serving under varying city council members and their changing goals and alliances. He oversaw city projects such as the Daniel C. Palamidessi Bridge, the Harbor Blvd. widening project, management of a sewage treatment crisis and expansion of the sewage plant, relocation of the police department, creation of the River Walk Park, and plans for a new civic center. He participated in the negotiations that led to the "ziggurat" landmark building – built for the Money Store and now occupied by the state's general services department. He also helped negotiate creation of Raley Field.

In 2000, Goeden was honored by the Sacramento Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce as a "public champion for business."

Though he plans to retire from city service when a replacement is selected, Goeden promises to return to his West Sacramento residence after working on his bed and breakfast project in McCloud.

RIGHT: The Tower Bridge in a current "golden" moment

Gold?

Forest green, gold and silver?

Or burgundy, gold and silver?

Those are the choices as Caltrans gets ready to give the Tower Bridge a new coat of paint – and you get to help decide what colors of paint the state will need to buy.

You can see daytime and nighttime pictures of the bridge dressed in each of these color schemes by visiting www.towerbridge.dot.ca.gov, and can register your vote online while you're there. Or vote by calling 1-866-TOWERBR (869-3727). Voting ends at 11:59 p.m. on Jan. 31.

The winning color scheme will be announced at a press conference Feb. 4.

The "streamline moderne" bridge was painted aluminum silver when it was completed in 1935 at a cost of $1 million. It gained its current shade of "ochre" (gold) in 1977. The 738-foot drawbridge connects West Sacramento's north area to Sacramento's downtown across the Sacramento River.

"The bridge is a well-known landmark and is part of the historical heritage of this area," said Caltrans director Jeff Morales. "The public owns the structure, and we think it's a good idea for them to choose the color they want."

'The public owns the structure, and we think it's a good idea for them to choose the color they want.'
Caltrans Director Jeff Morales

The three final color schemes were chosen after a consultation with Sacramento Mayor Heather Fargo, and City Councilman (then-mayor) Mark Montemayor of West Sacramento.

The final color scheme will be applied in three phases beginning this month and ending in March of 2003. Painting cost is estimated at $3.5 million.

Port eyes proposal for petroleum facility

A citizens' group already concerned over the Port of Sacramento's consideration of a gas-fired electricity plant, an ethanol production facility, and a concrete and asphalt plant attended a port commission meeting Monday evening to protest a possible 20-acre petroleum terminal to be operated by Wickland Oil Company along Industrial Blvd.

The commission listened to the protests from the newly formed West Sacramento QUAD (Quality Urbanization And Development) group, but opted to continue studying the "tank farm" lease while also asking for a preliminary opinion of the idea from city officials.

Mayor Bill Kristoff said yesterday he was aware of the petroleum tank proposal, but hadn't been fully briefed.

"I certainly would like to know more about what it would entail," said Kristoff. "If it means taking the existing tank farm off our river, that's already in our general plan to move those. Where to move them, I don't know. It certainly would clean up our riverfront, but it would put them elsewhere in our city."

Body of teen missing since 1987 found in West Sac

A badly decomposed body found in an unused truck trailer on F St. Jan. 2 has been identified as belonging to a 17-year old Klamath Falls boy reported distraught and missing in 1987.

The youth died of an apparent gunshot wound to the head, said deputy Yolo County coroner Mary Williams.

"He had left his family a note, saying he was despondent over girlfriend issues," said Williams. "The family reported him missing right away. He indicated he might be headed to the Sacramento area, where he had friends and contacts."

May 22, 1987, was the last time anybody heard from the teen. The body was found last week when the F Street trailer – a refrigerated unit unused for 30 years – was sold to a company located across the street from its former location, and was being cleaned out prior to use. The state of the body appeared consistent with death at about the time of Ruiz's disappearance, said Williams.

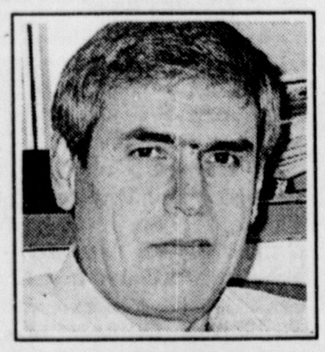

An investigation is continuing into the possible suicide.

Book-signing for columnist

It's best to read your church newsletter carefully

Someone once told me that Portland, Oregon has more churches than any other city in the United States. Now that may be true, but for our size, it seems to me that West Sacramento can more than hold its own. And when you factor in religious diversity, West Sacramento is second to none. Anyway, since I think it's fair to say we are a community of believers, and more than familiar with church newsletters, here are a few actual church newsletter 'out-takes' that I think might interest you, and which definitely could have benefitted from a little proofreading:

* The cost for attending the Fasting and Prayer Conference includes meals.
* The ladies of the Church have cast off clothing of every kind. They may be seen in the basement on Friday afternoon.
* At the evening service tonight, the sermon topic will be "What is Hell?". Come early and listen to the choir practice.
* Eight new choir robes are currently needed, due to the addition of several new members and the deterioration of some older ones.
* The senior choir invites any member of the congregation who enjoys sinning to join the choir.
* Miss Charlene Mason sang, "I will not pass this way again", giving obvious pleasure to the congregation.
* Ladies, don't forget the rummage sale next weekend. It's a great chance to get rid of those things not worth keeping around the house. Don't forget your husbands.
* Next Sunday is the family hayride and bonfire at the Fowler's ranch. Friends are welcome! Everyone come and have a fun time. Bring your own hot dogs and guns.
* The peacemaking meeting schedule for today has been canceled due to a conflict.
* The sermon this morning will be: "Jesus Walks on the Water". The sermon tonight will be: "Searching for Jesus".
* Next Thursday there will be tryouts for the choir. They need all the help they can get.
* Barbara remains in the hospital and needs blood donors for more transfusions. She is also having trouble sleeping and has requested tapes of Pastor Jack's sermons.
* The Rector will preach his farewell message after which the choir will sing "Break Forth Into Joy".
* Please remember in prayer the many who are sick of our community.
* Don't let worry kill you -- let the Church help.
* Bertha Belch, a missionary from Africa will be speaking tonight at Calvary Memorial Church in Racine. Come and hear Bertha Belch all the way from Africa.
* Irving Benson and Jessie Carter were married on October 24th in the church. So ends a friendship that began in their school years.
* Our Scouts are saving aluminum cans, bottles, and other items to be recycled. Proceeds will be used to cripple children.
* The Lutheran men's group will meet a 6 p.m. Steak, mashed potatoes, green beans, bread and dessert will be served for a nominal feel. And for those of you who have children and don't know it, we have a nursery downstairs.
* Please place your donation in the envelope along with the deceased person you want remembered.
* If you attend today's meeting, you will hear an excellent speaker and heave a healthy lunch.
* The church will host an evening of fine dining, superb entertainment, and gracious hostility.
* Potluck supper Sunday at 5 p.m. Prayer and medication to follow.
* This evening at 7 p.m. there will be a hymn sing in the park across from the Church. Bring a blanket and come prepared to sin.
* Ladies Bible Study will be held Thursday morning at 10 a.m. All ladies are invited to lunch in the Fellowship after the B.S. is done.
* The eighth-graders will be presenting Shakespeare's Hamlet in the Church basement at 7 p.m. The Congregation is invited to attend this tragedy.
* Weight Watchers will meet at 6 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church. Please use the large double door at the side entrance.
* The Associate Minister unveiled the church's new tithing campaign slogan last Sunday" "I Upped My Pledge -- Up Yours."
* And finally, my personal favorite: "The Low Self Esteem Support Group will meet this Thursday. Please use the back door."

Office for veterans' services expands hours—

Yolo County Supervisor Mike McGowan recently announced the expansion of Veteran's Service Office hours and operations in West Sacramento.

"Given the debt that we owe our veterans, we should be doing all that we can to ensure we're meeting their needs," said McGowan. "Expanded office hours in West Sacramento will make it easier for our local veterans to secure services, obtain information, and improve their access to the VA system."

Office hours for the Veteran's Service Office will more than triple from four to 16 hours per month. Veteran's staff will be available to file claims, arrange transportation to medical appointments, and assist veterans and their dependents.

Expanded hours begin on January 10. Regular office hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Thursdays.

McGowan will host an official reception, in celebration of the expanded hours on January 31st, from 9-11 a.m. at the Veteran's Service Office, which is located in the West Sacramento Senior Center, 664 Cummins Way.

"Kings Korner"

The Sacramento Kings (26-9) are only a half game behind the Western Division, leading Los Angeles Lakers (24-6) after blowing out the Milwaukee Bucks 115-101 last Sunday at the friendly confines of the Arco Arena. The Kings have won their last seven contests and while posting their 12th home court victory in a row.

The Bucks, who lost in the Eastern Conference final last year to the 76ers, played hard but were no match to the smooth passing Kings. The two teams combined to set the Arco Arena record for three-point field goals with 25. Peja Stojakovic tied the Arco Arena record, hitting 7 of 12 three pointers. C-Webb enjoyed his best game of the season with his first triple-double scoring 28 points, 12 rebounds and 10 assists. Doug Christie has been awesome for the Kings on both ends of the court. Christie has picked up the offensive slack of some injured players but his ability to steal passes and his defensive intensity has been infectious. The Kings are on a roll as they creep up on the Lakers in the standings.

The Kings for some crazy reason will not play for six days before they host Phoenix again on Sunday, January 13th. The Kings could really use the needed rest for their injured players but Chris Webber could probably use it the most to mend his nagging ankle problem. C-Webb missed 23 of the first 32 Kings games with a left ankle sprain. Mike Bibby (knee), Scot Pollard (ankle) and Vlade Divac (knee) each missed a couple of games last week with nagging injuries. Bibby missed his first game of his professional career after 248 consecutive starts. The Kings' consecutive sell-out streak at Arco Arena reached 102 games, the second longest in the NBA.

"NFL News"

The NFL regular season ended as the 12 remaining playoff teams prepare for their journey to the Super Bowl in New Orleans on February 3rd. Every team that had playoff implications won their last game of the season. Green Bay (12-4) won in New York and will host their first round game against the 49ers on Sunday, Jan. 13th (9:30 ?FOX). The Niners (12-4) also won but the Packers will host the game because the tiebreaker used was the best conference record. The 49ers were 8-4 while the Packers posted a 9-3-conference record.

The 49ers loss to Dallas last week has come back to haunt them so its time to put on the long johns. The weather in Green Bay will be windy and icy cold where Brett Farve thrives. The Packers are 30-0 in freezing temperature and have never lost a playoff game at Lambeau Field and were 7-1 this season regular season. The 49ers defense has recorded 3 shutouts in their last six games but the young inexperience players may have a problem in the cold weather containing Farve. The 49ers quarterback, Jeff Garcia, has experience playing in the cold weather in Canadian League but will his warm weather receivers be on the same page. The game will be decided by a field goal and 49ers kicker Jose Cortez is no match against Packers veteran kicker Longwell, who loves the cold weather. I hope I'm wrong again but take the 49ers (+4) and the points - Packers 23 - 49ers 21.

In the other NFC game the Eagles (-4) will host Tampa Bay in Philadelphia (1 p.m. or 5 p.m.) and the weather is expected to be very cold. The Bucs are pretty bad in cold weather but I like their chances this time ? Tampa Bay 23 ? Philadelphia 17.

In the AFC the New York Jets upset the Oakland Raiders 24-22 to lock up their spot while the New England Patriots mugged the Panthers to win the East Division and secure a first round bye and a home game in their cold weather stadium. Baltimore beat the Vikings on Monday night to qualify for the Super Bowl tournament and will travel to Miami (1 p.m.) for a first round match-up with the Dolphins. I like the defending Super Bowl champions plus the points ? Baltimore 17 ? Miami 13.

The Oakland Raiders (10-6) finished the regular season on a down spiral after being the first team to qualify for the playoffs. The Silver and Black have lost three of their last four games at home, their only victory 28-26 was over Kansas City. This Saturday (1 p.m. or 5 p.m.) the Raiders will bounce back and not rely on their place kicker to beat the Jets ?

Oakland 35 - New York 23.

"Boxing "

West Sacramento's two top-notch fighters are in serious training preparing for their next bouts. WBC bantamweight champion, Willie Jorrin, is in Los Angeles training with Freddie Roach for his second title defense in Japan on February 5th and Juan Lazcano is working out in West Sacramento for his March 8th televised bout on Telemundo (Spanish TV) at the Feather Falls Casino.

See ya next week!

Time for West Sac Little League signups

The West Sacramento Little League, which has been in operation since 1954, will hold registration for players age 5-15 on Saturdays, January 5, 12, and 19 from 1-3 p.m., and on Wednesdays, January 9 and 16 from 6-8 p.m. at the Fireman's Hall, located at 1966 Park Boulevard in West Sacramento. Fees are $40 (age 5-6), $50 (age 7-12), and $60 (age 13-15). A fully refundable $30 work deposit will also be assessed to each family.

It is important that all players register on these dates so that the number of teams needed in each division can be determined. A late fee will be charged to all players registering at tryouts.

Little League tryouts (ages 8-12) will be held at Memorial Park on Saturdays, February 2 and 9.

Baseball tryouts

The West Sacramento "Pirates" of the CAL-MEX league will host tryouts soon. The league is an 18-and-over, very competitive baseball league. For information, call 371-6558.

A Sporting View by Chris Richcreek

A Defining Time

Pat Riley is having one of those seasons at a most defining time.

The Miami Heat's head coach must wonder just how long ago it was that he coached in Los Angeles. In the 1980s, he racked up four NBA championships with the Lakers and was considered the king of coaches — although some detractors claimed he was lucky to lead such a talented team.

Riley eventually wore out his welcome in Los Angeles. But in 1991, the New York Knicks came calling.

It was a different scenario there. The Knicks under Riley embraced physical basketball, far from the run-and-gun style of Laker days. Many basketball observers decried the methods, but it did get the Knicks to one NBA Finals in the four seasons Riley coached the team.

Then came Riley's jump to the Miami Heat in 1995, which caused a ruckus and provided another hit to his reputation. Miami became New York south, known for its grind-it-out, physical style of play.

But conference finals, much less NBA Finals, have been hard to come by in Miami. Instead, first-round playoff ousters have been more the norm.

This season, Miami won only four times in its first 20 games, which meant the Heat were tied for last place in the NBA.

Injuries were to blame in part. The team's star center, Alonzo Mourning, has played at less than an All-Star level due to issues related to a kidney ailment. The team's star guard, Eddie Jones, has never quite secured the All-Star status that was projected for him. Miami has brought in players like Rod Strickland, Chris Gatling and Jim Jackson — pros whose careers have included big question marks — in an effort to end the downward spiral.

Whether Riley wants to admit it or not, each step up on his coaching rung has brought less success — from NBA Finals to first-round ousters to this season.

Riley is still considered a good coach, but he is no longer the king of coaches. In fact, those writing the history of the game are likely leaning toward a viewpoint that maybe Riley WAS a little lucky with the Lakers after all.

It is rumored that this might be Riley's last season on the sidelines. The end result will likely provide some dark ink for his career sketch.

Touring with Teddi

by Teddi Boylan

As a devotee of Chinese cuisine, I seem to constantly end up in an argument over whether Raley's Chinese take-out or Safeway's Chinese take-out is better.

Let me start by saying both are good. In my opinion, Safeway wins. I ordered the same items on the same day for comparison. For presentation purposes, Safeway came in first – their food was served in a microwavable plastic plate, while Raley's was lumped in a styrofoam box. In Raley's favor, I must note that they gave a fortune cookie, while Safeway did not.

The combo plate I ordered in both places consisted of lemon chicken, fried rice and chow mein. Safeway's lemon chicken was chunky and tender, whereas the dish from Raley's was cut in strips and tended to be tougher. Both had good flavor. The chow mein and fried rice were pretty much alike. I also ordered an egg roll from both stores, and must admit that Safeway won hands-down. Raley's also had some tempura vegetables, and that was quite unusual (extra charge).

The gals at Safeway were also much friendlier, with a "Happy New Year!" and smile. It's amazing how much someone's bright smile and friendly greeting can brighten your day. I suspect the manager at Safeway has drilled this into all his employees. It makes the tedious job of shopping so much nicer.

Staying with Chinese food: It has been quite a while since I went into A's Chinese Food to Go in the La Bou shopping center on Merkley Ave. (behind Walgreen's). My neighbor Jean Drummond says it is as good as ever. I heard some time ago that the business had sold, and I'm glad to hear the new owner is living up to their previous good reputation.

While over that way, be sure to drop into Gorman's Hallmark store. What a fascinating array of goodies they have. Mrs. Gorman is never too busy to give you her personal attention. They should get a "best neighbor" award.

Morrison's Restaurant in Woodland was really swinging on New Year's Eve.

Everyone who attended said they had a great time and hoped it would become a yearly event. By the way, if you haven't tried their "scallone" (scallops and abalone), you haven't lived. It isn't available every day, so you'd better call first and find out when it's being served.

Did you have your New Year's party catered by Jealousy Catering?

I know they were as busy as little bees over the holidays. Many people are afraid catering is too expensive, so they shy away from it unless it's for a wedding or other large event. But the best favor you can do yourself is to stop in and ask what they can do for your needs. You might be very pleasantly surprised.

I don't know about you, but I'm sure glad this holiday season is over?

I just kept going and going like a certain rabbit, and New Year's Eve dinner at the West End pub was a pleasant culmination of a tiring but most enjoyable time.

by Elizabeth Pivonka, Ph.D., President, Produce for Better Health Foundation

(NAPS)—The good news is that eating lots of fruits and vegetables can help prevent many of the nation's most deadly and debilitating diseases. The bad news is that less than 75 percent of Americans eat the minimum five servings of fruits and vegetables each day.

Elizabeth Pivonka

Children miss the 5 A Day mark by more than one-and-a-half servings a day. We have the proverbial "silver bullet" and don't take full advantage of it. Simply adding a fruit snack and a small salad every day to the diets of children would put them over the 5 A Day goal.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Americans eat the most fruit in the summer. But even at our best we eat only 54 percent of the recommended servings of fruit. During the winter, fruit consumption slips to a record low 44 percent of the recommended servings, and 15 to 18 year olds are among the lowest. Boys eat just 29 percent and girls 34 percent of the fruit recommended by the Food Guide Pyramid during the winter months.

This winter slump probably has its roots in a time when supplies of summer fruit ended with the U.S. growing season. In our growing global marketplace, countries like Chile—whose seasons are opposite ours—help provide us with a year-round supply of fruits and vegetables unmatched by any nation in the world.

Chilean dark, sweet cherries are in U.S. markets from November until the end of January, and Chile's blueberries and red raspberries are available late in November until the end of May.

Raspberries, blueberries and cherries contain powerful antioxidant phytonutrients that studies suggest may prevent coronary artery disease and certain cancers. Antioxidants help prevent disease by mopping up the cell-damaging free radicals that the body produces as it converts food into energy.

Sweet cherries, blueberries and raspberries are also good sources of fiber and vitamin C. A one-cup serving of raspberries has about one third of the recommended daily intake of fiber.

This delicious parfait can be enjoyed all year long, thanks to fruit from Chile.

But most importantly, the wonderful taste of fresh sweet cherries and berries from Chile are a sure way to beat the winter slump and hit the 5 A Day for Better Health goal. Try this Cherry Berry Parfait. It's so good even a fussy teenager will come back for seconds.

Cherry Berry Parfait
Makes 4 servings

1 cup fresh sweet Chilean cherries
1 cup chopped fresh or canned pineapple
1 cup fresh Chilean raspberries or blueberries
1 cup low-fat vanilla or lemon yogurt
1 medium banana, sliced
⅓ cup chopped dates
¼ cup sliced, toasted almonds

Set aside 4 whole Chilean cherries. Remove the pits and slice the remaining cherries in half. In stemmed glasses, layer the cherries, pineapple, raspberries, yogurt, banana and dates. Sprinkle the almonds on top and garnish with a whole sweet cherry.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

Ochre rules.

The editorial page of the newspaper across the river glowed this weekend, and even the Los Angeles on Jan. 1 took positive note, when Caltrans announced it would let the public vote on the future color of the Tower Bridge.

The view from here is that the idea of the bridge color vote looks "cute," and maybe even "fun." But let's not consider it some kind of revolution in direct government. It's just a paint job.

The bridge does need a new coat of paint. It has burned itself in our mind's eye for nearly a quarter century in its present shade of gold, but the state is offering us two other, more complex color schemes as options in the upcoming $3.5 million paint project. One choice involves burgundy, gold and silver; the other entails dark green, gold and silver.

The green scheme would mesh with Raley Field in West Sacramento. But since the stadium is not a terribly high-profile visual landmark (although its lights can be), this matters little.

What matters more is that the current gold ("ochre") color matches well with the sandstone surfaces of the former Money Store building. That's the "ziggurat" now occupied by the California Dept. of General Services.

Together, the Tower Bridge and the ziggurat, with their complementary golden colors, have become a local landmark. Just count the times they show up as filler on local newscasts. The Tower Bridge may join Sacramento to West Sacramento, but its golden hue ties the bridge purely to the west. From a selfish West Sacramento perspective, that alone is reason to keep the bridge gold.

More importantly to the region is the "tradition" factor invested in ochre.

We like the bridge and the fact that it has become a Sacramento landmark visible from I-80 and from airplanes. We like its golden color, and we like our traditions.

And that's why "gold" will win, hands-down. If anyone tells you otherwise, take his bet.

Letters to the Editor

Third Street Firehouse needs your help

The year 2001 and the beginning of this year are proving very busy for the West Sacramento Historical Society. In 2001 the Society launched a campaign to acquire the Third Street Firehouse in the Broderick District of West Sacramento for a museum/cultural center. The firehouse is significant because it is one of a few art deco firehouses in the United States and was designed by California's first state architect, George Sellon. Additionally, it was the hub of activity in the early years of East Yolo, used as a firehouse and community center.

The Society and the River Valley Art Center jointly worked on a proposal for a historical museum and art center which was submitted to the City of West Sacramento for consideration.

As a result, the Society began a pledge drive for a museum/art center at the Third Street Firehouse. The show of support for the proposed site is impressive. The Society has received pledges from individuals living in West Sacramento, Sacramento, Davis, Dixon, Vacaville, San Mateo, and even Los Angeles, as well as other communities.

Individuals may make a pledge to the Society for the museum project by contacting Lana Paulhamus, President of the Society, at 372-5117, or write the Society at P.O. Box 65, West Sacramento, 95605.

The Society will he holding election of officers at their next general meeting. Anyone wishing to be considered for a position must be a dues paying member of the organization and should contact Verna Ellis at 375-0160.

Barbara Baker, Membership Chairperson of the Society states, "Now is the time for everyone to pay their dues for the new year. We are a non-profit organization with all funds going towards the Society's projects, such as exhibitions, restoration costs for the two fire engines, "Old Mary" and "The Wine Barrel", membership mailings, purchasing videos and books as well as other costs."

For further information regarding the West Sacramento Historical Society, contact either Lana Paulhamus at 372-5117, or Louisa R. Vessell at 451-2113.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Barbara Schultz in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Barbara Schultz be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. PORT from page one

Port commission chairman Mike McGowan and port director John Sulpizio could not immediately be reached for comment Tuesday morning.

Kimber Goddard, vice president of West Sacramento QUAD, said after the meeting that he and others fought the "tank farm" proposal from coming to the port's Industrial Blvd. property because of housing close to it. He called the recent battles over the port's land use decisions "a conceptual argument over the port's future."

"In the big picture, we just have continuing confusion because of the perceived mission of the port and the desires of the people who live here. The port historically has had an industrial mission and a maritime mission, and, at least as long as it is headed by McGowan, doesn't want to reinvent its mission."

Goddard said his group believes "in an opportunity to balance the land uses where port property is concerned. No one in QUAD advocates a closure of the port, but we do advocate citizen-friendly land uses."
